One of the most asked questions about etiquette, a set customs and rules for polite behavior, is: "Why do we have these rules, and who invented them?"

About 11,000 years ago, humans made a big change in the way they lived. They found they did not have to 66 wander through the forest hunting animals and gathering huts and berries to eat. 67 they learned about planting seeds and do domesticating animals. They discovered that they could live in one place, and 68 was not such a desperate daily struggle. There was more, food, more leisure time, more security.

Soon after, they began to develop ways of getting 69 with as little fighting, anger and 70 as before. Eventually, the rules changed as way of living changed. But the reasons for these rules are as valid now as they were at the beginning.

Young people like things 71. So you can tell them that there are two basic 72 of behavior they have held up through the centuries : be kind and treat people with respect.

The second most asked question is : "Why should I follow these rules ?"

We learn the rules of etiquette 73 knowing them gives us confidence. If you know how to 74 wherever you are, you will be more at ease, people will get the message that you are a 75 person.

Passage 3

- The economic crisis in 1997 made Thai citizens from every region, both the public and private sectors, aware of the vulnerability of the country's economic foundation and the problems of heavy reliance on foreign investment, technology, and markets. This led to serious attention being given to the study and analysis of His Majesty's address on the topic of "Sufficiency Economy".

- With the main duty of formulating the National Economic and Social Development Plans as well as coordinating the country's development at policy level, the National Economic and Social Development Board (NESDB) considered it most appropriate to use the royal philosophy of "Sufficiency Economy" as a guideline for determining policy, planning and formulating the implementation plan at all levels. This will create a correct and uniform understanding among all the parties concerned, as well as serve as a guideline to help Thai people earn a good living and the country in overcoming the economic crisis. As a result, after a review and evaluation of His Majesty's addresses on Sufficiency Economy as well as other related topics, the NESDB sought His Majesty's consideration and his Royal permission for further reference.

"Sufficiency Economy"

- "Sufficiency Economy" is a philosophy bestowed by His Majesty the King to his subjects through royal remarks on many occasions over the past three decades. The philosophy provides guidance on appropriate conduct covering numerous aspects of life. After the economic crisis in 1997, His Majesty reiterated and expanded on the "Sufficiency Economy" in remarks made in December 1997 and 1998. The philosophy points the way for recovery that will lead to a more resilient and sustainable economy, better able to meet the challenges arising from globalization and other changes.

Philosophy of the "Sufficiency Economy"

"Sufficiency Economy" is a philosophy that stresses the middle path as the overriding principle for appropriate conduct by the populace at all levels. This applies to conduct at the level of the individual, families, and communities, as well as to the choice of a balanced development strategy for the nation so as to modernize in line with the forces of globalization while shielding against inevitable shocks and

- 35 excesses that arise. "Sufficiency" means moderation and due consideration in all modes of conduct, as well as the need for sufficient protection from internal and external shocks. To achieve this, the application of knowledge with prudence is essential. In particular, great care is needed in the utilization of untested theories and methodologies 40 for planning and implementation. At the same time, it is essential to strengthen the moral fiber of the nation, so that everyone, particularly public officials, theorists and businessmen, adheres first and foremost to the principles of honesty and integrity. In addition, a balanced approach combining patience, perseverance, diligence, wisdom and 45 prudence is indispensable to cope appropriately with critical challenges arising from extensive and rapid socioeconomic, environmental, and cultural changes occurring as a result of globalization.
